FINISH LONGEST OCEAN FLIGHT EVER TRIED

KINGSFORD-SMITH AND COMPANIONS

FLY 3,138 MILES

HAD BEEN IN THE AIR IN LAST HOP 34 HOURS, 33 MINUTES

TRIP FROM OAKLAND TO SUVA NEARLY 11 DAYS AHEAD OF OCEAN LINER

Suva, Fiji Islands, June 5.—(U.P.)—The monoplane Southern Cross today completed the longest ocean flight ever attempted.

Dropping down from a blue tropical sky, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three fellow adventurers ended safely and triumphantly their 3,138-mile voyage from Barking Sands, Hawaii. They arrived 6:23 P. M. Monday, Pacific coast time.

Since dawn Sunday, when they hopped off from the island of Kauai, they had been in the air 34 hours and 33 minutes. Their trip from Oakland Airport to Suva was nearly eleven days ahead of the fastest time ever made by ocean liner.

Suva, Fiji Islands, June 6 (Wednesday)—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions who flew here from Hawaii, in the giant monoplane Southern Cross, completing the longest ocean flight ever undertaken, probably will not begin the last stage of their epochal flight from California to Australia before the end of the week.

Meanwhile the four men who have become the idols of these tropical islands will overhaul the three motors of their big plane, re-charge their radio batteries and search for a suitable clearance from which they can take off for the 1,700-mile flight to Sydney.

The 450-foot clearing where the Southern Cross landed yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon at the end of the 3,100-mile flight from the Hawaiian Islands, is too small for a take-off with a loaded plane although it was perfect for landing.

The crew of the plane appeared refreshed today after a night of peaceful slumber. Kingsford-Smith and his aides were tremendously impressed by welcome accorded them by the Fijians and natives of other countries who crowded the landing field.

All of the Fiji Islands seemed to be participating in the welcome as the Southern Cross sailed down out of the blue sky and came to a stop on the green field.

A sapphire sea, the coral reefs, palm trees and the sudden flight of frightened birds, added to the beauty of the landing scene.

Natives, shrieking jubilantly, rushed the defense guard which had surrounded the field as requested in radio messages from the plane as it neared the islands.

Chiefs of the native tribes are eager to perform their tribal ceremonies of welcome for the flyers but first the visitors must be feted by the mayor of Suva and the governor of the islands.

The mayor will entertain them at a dinner tonight and tomorrow they will be given a luncheon by the governor and will be received by a gathering of returned sailors and soldiers.

NATIVES AND WHITES HONOR THE AVIATORS

Suva, Fiji Islands, June 6. (Wednesday)—Natives and whites of the Fiji Islands joined today in honoring the four airmen of the trans-Pacific plane Southern Cross.

Sir Eyre Hutson, governor of the Fijis, planned a luncheon for Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions, Charles T. P. Ulm, Harry V. Lyon and James Warner.

Later they will be guests at a reception attended by civic authorities and army and navy officers stationed in Suva.

Not to be outdone in hospitality by the white race, native chiefs were arranging a ceremony at which the flyers will be welcomed by the Fiji tribes.

The natives regarded almost with awe the four men who came flying out of the skies and landed on an improvised field here at 2:23 P. M. yesterday.

A large crowd of natives remained in front of the hotel where they were quartered until long after the four aviators were asleep, hoping to get another glimpse of them.

June 5—Landed at Suva after a flight of 3,138 miles in 34 hours, 33 minutes.

Total elapsed flying time for 5545 miles from Oakland to Suva—62 hours, 1 minute.

The flight over 3,138 miles of the south Pacific ocean from Kauai to Suva was the longest over-water air hop ever made or attempted.

The Southern Cross has before it a 1,795 mile sea flight from Suva to Brisbane, Australia, and a 500-mile hop over Australia to Sydney.

Successful completion of the flight will end a 7,958-mile air voyage, practically all of it over water.

FARMERS GATHER TO PROTEST THE COOLIDGE VETO

3,000 REPUBLICANS, DEMOCRATS AND FARMER-LABORITES ASSEMBLE AT MORRIS

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS CONDEMNING VETO OF McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

Morris, Minn., June 5.—(U.P.)—Three thousand republicans, democrats and farm-laborites gathered here to protest the veto of the McNary-Haugen bill and form resolutions to attend the republican national convention at Kansas City in a body to demand economic equality for agriculture.

The following resolutions were passed: Condemning President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

Instructing all delegates from the northwest to the republican convention to use every honorable means to prevent the nomination of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover as presidential candidate.

To obtain the unqualified indorsement of the McNary-Haugen bill at the republican national convention.

If efforts to obtain agricultural relief fail at the republican convention a pledge was drawn up in accordance with which party allegiance will be disregarded in the presidential election. Representatives to the meeting pledged themselves to induce every citizen possible to join the "march of farmers" to the Kansas City convention.

Although the meeting here was sponsored by republican party leaders, members of the democratic and farm-labor organizations attended in large numbers. Several democrats urged a march to the democratic convention at Houston, Texas, in the event of failure at the republican meet.

Thomas Mangan, state senator, presided at the meeting.

20 REBELS, THREE FEDERAL SOLDIERS KILLED IN FIGHT

Mexico City, June 5.—(U.P.)—Twenty rebels and three federal soldiers were killed in a fight near El Salvador, in Jalisco state, it was announced today.

Farmers successfully defended the village of Atotonilquillo against a bandit band and the same band failed in an effort to halt and rob a train passing the district.

BELIEVE LINDBERGH SPENT NIGHT IN SOME OUT-OF-THE-WAY SPOT

St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—(U.P.)—Friends of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh here believed today he had spent the night in a quiet, out-of-the-way spot somewhere between Texas and Missouri after a flight of unknown destination.

Lambert-St. Louis field here and Scott field, Belleville, Ill., both reported Lindbergh unharmed early today, although he left El Paso, Tex., in his new Ryan brougham yesterday.

It was "like Lindbergh," an attendant at Lambert field said, to drop down unheralded in an isolated region, perhaps to avoid a driving rain storm which swept St. Louis and vicinity today.

Mrs. Arturo P. Ramos, Former Millicent Rogers, Ill With Pneumonia

New York, June 5.—(U.P.)—Four physicians were summoned today for consultation over the condition of Mrs. Arturo P. Ramos, the former Miss Millicent Rogers. Mrs. Ramos is seriously ill with double pneumonia.

TODAY IN THE AIR

By United Press

Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon prepared to leave Newfoundland for London today in the monoplane Friendship.

Clarence Chamberlain, trans-Atlantic flier, was named air engineer of the city of New York at a salary of $1,000 a month upon the completion of his nation-wide air tour. He will aid in the construction of a municipal airport on Barren Island.

Miss Mabel Boll continued tests on Charles Levine's Columbia, announcing she intended to start across the Atlantic tomorrow in an effort to beat Miss Earhart and Stultz.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh continued his flight eastward after landing at Fort Worth, Texas. St. Louis was his next destination.

Russia pushed plans to send a relief expedition to Franz Josef Land to search for General Umberto Nobile and the dirigible Italia. Lieut. Luetzow Holm, Norwegian flier, was pushing into the north aboard the steamer Hobby to start an air hunt.

THREATENS TO PARALYZE ALL MAIN ARTERIES OF GERMAN CIVIL AVIATION

Berlin, June 5.—(U.P.)—A prospective strike by laborers of the great Lufthansa Company, which would be the first strike in aviation history, threatened today to paralyze all main arteries of German civil aviation.

A board of arbitration awarded the laborers an increase in pay. The company was advised by the ministry of transport not to execute the award. If the ministry of labor also advises against the raise, a strike next week is scheduled.

"FRIENDSHIP" STILL AT HER MOORINGS IN TREPASSY BAY

St. Johns, N. F., June 5.—(U.P.)—A leak in a gasoline tank today delayed refueling of the monoplane Friendship, scheduled to start this morning on a trans-Atlantic flight.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston social worker, Wilmer Stultz, her co-pilot, and Lou Gordon, mechanic, were up at dawn to supervise the fuelling.

But at 7:30 A. M. EST, a leak that had been revealed yesterday in one of the big plane's tanks had not been repaired.

The Friendship still was at her moorings in Trepassy Bay, with four drums of fuel waiting to be put aboard.

TWO ROYAL AIR FORCE PILOTS KILLED AS PLANES COLLIDE

Upavon, Eng., June 5.—(U.P.)—Two royal air force pilots were killed today when their planes collided over the airfield here.

OCCUPATION OF NORTHERN CAPITAL IS CARRIED OUT

3 NATIONALIST ARMIES HAVE BEEN DRIVING TOWARD PEKING

REGARDED AS RICHEST AND FINAL PRIZE IN CIVIL WAR

Peking, June 5.—(U.P.)—The advance guard of the Shansi nationalist army entered the suburbs of Peking at 10 A. M. today.

The fact that the first arrivals of the nationalists in Peking were Shansi troops meant that occupation of the northern capital had been carried out according to advance plans.

Three nationalist armies had been driving toward the capital, the richest and final prize in the civil war. First there were the armies of Chiang Kai-Shek, commander-in-chief of the nationalist army. Second was that of Feng Yu-Hsiang, "Christian general." Third was the Shansi army of Yen Hsi-Shan, "model governor" of Shansi province.

The almost casual entry into the city of the straggling first squads of the nationalist troops was regarded as the beginning of the last chapter in China's civil war.

Foreign soldiers and marines, including Americans, guarded the legation quarter against possible incursion of stragglers of the defeated northern army or of the nationalist victors, seeking loot.

Nationalist leaders nominated Yen Hsi-Shan to take control for the nationalist government.

It had been proposed that a branch of the nationalist political council be formed there with Yen in charge. This was expected to eventuate if the occupation continued according to the advance plan.

Shanghai, June 5.—Shansi advance guards of the nationalist army were reported tonight to have occupied the famous "summer palace" of the old emperors, 10 miles outside of Peking.

Advance guards of the Shansi force later entered the city proper, with Gen. Hsu Yung-Chang at their head, a Peking dispatch said.

Conduct of the Shansi troops approaching Peking, and of the northern troops retreating before them, was reported to be good.

Remaining members of the northern cabinet were reported to have left Peking for Mukden.

The police administration of the city has been assumed by a committee of public safety under Wang Shi-Chen.

An unverified Tientsin dispatch reported that after secret negotiations between northern generals and nationalists, 80,000 northern troops under Gen. Yu Lung-Chung and Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang have gone over to the nationalist side.

Retreating northern generals along the civil war front were destroying bridges behind them.

First reports of disorder came late tonight, when it was said retreating northerners had looted villages near Tungchow, west of Peking. Earlier conduct both of northerners and nationalists had been reported good.

Chang Sueh-Liung, son of Chang Tso-Lin, the dictator, and Yang Yung-Ting were withdrawing and their men had destroyed the railway bridges at Changshien and Fengtai.

Railway service between Peking and Tientsin was suspended, except for those carrying retreating northern troops.

Foreign diplomats, except United States representatives, were reported tonight to be discussing the advisability of running an international train to take away their nationals from Tientsin if necessary.

Tokio, June 5.—Chang Tso-Lin, northern dictator, whose special train was bombed as he reached Mukden after withdrawing from Peking, had fallen into a comatose state at 7 P. M. today, a Nippon Dempo news agency dispatch reported.

ST. PAUL GIRL TELLS OF PERILOUS TRIP IN AFRICAN WILDS

New York, June 5.—(U.P.)—Miss Alice O'Brien of St. Paul, Minn., who returned from abroad recently, told today of a perilous trip through the African wilds on which she was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Blair Flandau of St. Paul and Ben Burbridge of Jacksonville, Fla.

The party traveled from west to east, starting in the Belgian Congo and coming out on the east coast near Dares Salaam five months later. Miss O'Brien said the trip was made to prove that travel through the jungle could be just as comfortable as in the United States or Europe.

FIVE WOMEN SETTLE FOR RADIUM INJURIES THEY HAD RECEIVED

Newark, N. J., June 5.—(U.P.)—The settlement made by the five women who sued the United States Radium corporation for $1,250,000 will assure them incomes larger than they ever made as employees of the organization, their counsel said today.

One thousand dollars a year was the maximum salary paid to the women when they pointed brushes with their mouths and painted watch dials with a radioactive substance in the Radium corporation's plant at Orange, N. J. In doing that work they contracted a poisoning which probably will kill them within a year.

Under the settlement each woman received $10,000 outright; $2,000 for past medical expenses; a pension of $600 a year; $600 a year to cover future medical expenses and counsel fees aggregating $19,500.

Their lawyers said each woman would invest her $10,000 so it would yield a yearly income of $600. That combined with the $600 pension, will bring their total income to $1,200.

CLOUDBURST MAY HAVE CAUSED LOSS OF LIFE

Los Angeles, June 5.—(U.P.)—Relief parties were sent into Big Pine canyon today to search for possible victims of a cloudburst which caused one small dam to break and carried away the intake keeper's house at the Big Pine power plant.

William Lowe, the power house operator, telephoned the water bureau here that he had seen a man and a small boy clinging to the top of an automobile overturned in the canyon.

A number of campers were known to have been in the water swept section.

MEXICAN TO FLY FROM MEXICO CITY TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington, June 5.—(U.P.)—Captain Emilio Carranza of the Mexican aviation service will undertake his long non-stop flight from Mexico City to Washington during the latter part of the present week, according to advices received at the Mexican embassy here today.

HAMMILL ASSURED OF RENOMINATION TO POST OF GOVERNOR

Des Moines, Ia., June 5.—(U.P.)—Governor John Hammill apparently was assured today of renomination as the republican candidate for governor of Iowa.

Returns from more than half of the state's 2,450 precincts gave Governor Hammill a lead of approximately 90,000 over the nearest of his three opponents.

Three of the five congressmen whose renomination was contested in the primary were leading their opponents by wide margins today. They were Gilbert N. Haugen, co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill; C. C. Dowell, in the seventh district; and T. J. B. Robinson, in the third district.

said Chang had shown temporary improvement. Subsequently, it was said, he lost his appetite and lapsed into semi-consciousness.

Chang was wounded in the forehead when his train was bombed.

A Jiji Shimpo newspaper dispatch early today reported that Chang had died. The first Nippon Dempo dispatch denied it.

CREW MAY BE TRYING TO WORK DISABLED RADIO

SUPPOSITION BASED ON UNCONFIRMED RADIO ADVICES

INDICATES ITALIA MAY BE ON FRANZ JOSEF LAND

Moscow, June 5.—(U.P.)—A Murmansk fishing trawler radioed today that it had picked up a message from Obdorsk, saying that the radio station there had picked up an S. O. S. message from the lost polar dirigible Italia, in Franz Josef Land.

Copenhagen, June 5.—Hope grew today that the dirigible Italia might be safe and that its crew, working with disabled radio equipment, was attempting to communicate with the civilized world. The hope was based on unconfirmed radio advices, which indicated the Italia was on Franz Josef Land.

Several reports—wholly unverified—have been received here, the most hopeful of which came from a radio station at Hemsoe, near Hernosland, which advised receipt of a message in French Monday afternoon that read:

"Dirigible Italia, SOS, we have received information you are on Island Franz Josef Land."

The message indicated the sending station had been in communication with the Italia and it was believed that one of the Russian ice breakers, sent out by the Russian government, had been the sending station.

The Hemsoe station also reported they had heard a short wave instrument at a wave length of between 35 and 37 meters. The message was preceded by the call signal: "Italia."

This was transmitted repeatedly for several minutes and finally there came the message, "We received information you are on Franz Josef Land."

Another report was from Lulea, Sweden, saying that the Malmogers radio station, at 11 P. M. Monday, obtained a connection with a Russian amateur giving the call "15RA." The Russian amateur, the report said, advised he had heard signals from the Italia and had obtained connection with the airship but the connection had been disrupted before any position could be learned.

It was pointed out here that if the Italia had landed on ice it now must be using accumulator batteries to operate its radio apparatus, consequently the signals would be weak and could be heard only in the immediate vicinity, accounting for the airship itself not being heard in Sweden although the signals of the ice breaker or radio station could be heard.

Aboard the Rescue Steamship Hobby, near Spitzbergen, June 5.—(Copyright)—The Hobby, sent by the Norwegian government, arrived at Virgo Bay at dawn today and Lt. Lutzow Holm began at once to prepare his airplane for the search for the lost polar dirigible Italia.

Rescue work was complicated today when the Hobby received a radio from the steamship Braganza that she could find no trace of two squads of Italian Alpine Chasseurs sent inland to search for the Italia's crew.

Grave anxiety was felt for them. The Chasseurs were landed on the northwest coast of Spitzbergen a week ago today—with but one week's food. It has been snowing heavily since they left.

The Braganza's message said she had arrived at Welcome Island. Lieut. Holm, on his flight, will take a small sled, one week's food supply, a sleeping bag and a rifle.

In addition, he will carry three tins of dried meat to throw overboard if he sights the Italia's crew.

ment of the McNary-Haugen bill at the republican national convention.

If efforts to obtain agricultural relief fail at the republican convention
a pledge was drawn up in accordance with which party allegiance will be disregarded in the presidential election. Representatives to the meeting pledged themselves to induce every citizen possible to join the "march of farmers" to the Kansas City convention.

Although the meeting here was sponsored by republican party leaders, members of the democratic and farm-labor organizations attended in large numbers. Several democrats urged a march to the democratic convention at Houston, Texas, in the event of failure at the republican meet.

Thomas Mangan, state senator, presided at the meeting.

Mexico City, June 5.—(UP)— Twenty rebels and three federal soldiers were killed in a fight near El Salvador, in Jalisco state, it was announced today.

the village of Alotondiquillo against a bandit band and the same band failed in an effort to halt and rob a train passing the district.

BELIEVE LINDBERGH SPENT NIGHT IN SOME OUT-OF-THE-WAY SPOT

St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—(UP)—
Friends of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh here believed today he had spent the night in a quiet, out-of-the-way spot somewhere between Texas and Missouri after a flight of unknown distance.

Lambert-St. Louis field here and Scott field, Belleville, Ill., both reported Lindbergh unarrived early today, although he left El Paso, Tex., in his new Ryan brougham yesterday.

It was "like Lindbergh," an attendant at Lambert field said, to drop down unheralded in an isolated region, perhaps to avoid a driving rain storm which swept St. Louis and vicinity today.

Mrs. Arturo P. Ramos, Former Millicent Rogers, Ill With Pneumonia

New York, June 5.—(UP)—Four

TODAY IN THE AIR

By United Press
Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions in the Southern Cross rested at Suva, Fiji Islands, in preparation for the final leg of their flight from Oakland, Calif., to Australia. They have completed the longest sea flight ever made.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz
and Lou Gordon prepared to leave Newfoundland for London today in the monoplane Friendship.

Clarence Chamberlain, trans-Atlantic flier, was named air engineer of the city of New York at a salary of $1,000 a month upon the completion of his nation-wide air tour. He will aid in the construction of a municipal airport on Barren Island.

Miss Mabel Boll continued tests on Charles Levine's Columbia, announcing she intended to start across the Atlantic tomorrow in an effort to beat Miss Earhart and Stultz.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh continued his flight eastward after landing at Fort Worth, Texas. St. Louis was his next destination.

Russia pushed plans to send a relief expedition to Franz Josef Land to search for General Umberto Nobile and the dirigible Italia. Lieut. Luet-zow Holm, Norwegian flier, was pushing into the north aboard the steamer
Hobby to start an air hunt.

FIRST STRIKE IN AVIATION HISTORY DAWNS

LABORERS OF GREAT LUFTHANSA COMPANY RESTLESS AT BERLIN

THREATENS TO PARALYZE ALL
MAIN ARTERIES OF GERMAN
CIVIL AVIATION

Berlin, June 5.—(UP)—A prospective strike by laborers of the great Lufthansa Company, which would be the first strike in aviation history, threatened today to paralyze all main arteries of German civil aviation.

A board of arbitration awarded the laborers an increase in pay. The company was advised by the ministry of transport not to execute the award. If the ministry of labor also advises against the raise, a strike
next week is scheduled.

LEAK IN GAS TANK DELAYS PLANE FLIGHT

THE EARHART TRANS-ATLANTIC
FLIGHT WAS SET FOR THIS MORNING

"FRIENDSHIP" STILL AT HER
MOORINGS IN TREPASSY
BAY

St. Johns, N. F., June 5.—(UP)—
A leak in a gasoline tank today delayed refuelling of the monoplane Friendship, scheduled to start this morning on a trans-Atlantic flight.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston social worker, Wilmer Stultz, her co-pilot, and Lou Gordon, mechanic, were up at dawn to supervise the fueling.

But at 7:30 A. M. EST, a leak that had been revealed yesterday in one of the big plane's tanks had not been repaired.

The Friendship still was at her moorings in Trepassy Bay, with four drums of fuel waiting to be put aboard.

ST. PAUL GIRL TELLS OF PERILOUS TRIP IN AFRICAN WILDS

New York, June 5.—(UP)—Miss Alice O'Brien of St. Paul, Minn., who returned from abroad recently, told today of a perilous trip through the African wilds on which she was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Blair Flandau of St.
Paul and Ben Burbridge of Jacksonville, Fla.

The party traveled from west to east, starting in the Belgian Congo and coming out on the east coast near Dares-Salaam five months later. Miss O'Brien said the trip was made to prove that travel through the jungle could be just as comfortable as in the United States or Europe.

FIVE WOMEN SETTLE FOR RADIUM INJURIES THEY HAD RECEIVED

Newark, N. J., June 5.—(UP)—The settlement made by the five women who sued the United States Radium corporation for $125,000 will assure them incomes larger than they ever made as employees of the organization, their counsel said today.

One thousand dollars a year was the maximum salary paid to the women when they pointed brushes with their mouths and painted watch dials with a radioactive substance in the Radium corporation's plant at Orange, N. J. In doing that work they contracted a poisoning which probably will kill them within a year.

Under the settlement each woman received $10,000 outright; $2,000 for past medical expenses; a pension of $600 a year; $600 a year to cover future medical expenses and counsel fees aggregating $19,500.

Their lawyers said each woman would invest her $10,000 so it would yield a yearly income of $600. That, combined with the $600 pension, will bring their total income to $1,200.

CLOUDBURST MAY HAVE CAUSED LOSS OF LIFE

Los Angeles, June 5.—(UP)—Relief parties were sent into Big Pine canyon today to search for possible victims of a cloudburst which caused one small dam to break and carried away the intake keeper's house at the Big Pine power plant.

William Lowe, the power house operator, telephoned the water bureau here that he had seen a man and a small boy clinging to the top of an automobile overturned in the canyon.

A number of campers were known to have been in the water swept section.

MEXICAN TO FLY FROM MEXICO CITY TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington, June 5.—(UP)—Captain

ation service will undertake his long non-stop flight from Mexico City to Washington during the latter part of the present week, according to advices received at the Mexican embassy here today.

HAMMILL ASSURED OF RENOMINATION TO POST OF GOVERNOR

Des Moines, Ia., June 5.—(UP)—Governor John Hammill apparently was assured today of renomination as the republican candidate for governor of Iowa.

Returns from more than half of the state's 2,450 precincts gave Governor Hammill a lead of approximately 90,000 over the nearest of his three opponents.

Three of the five congressmen whose renomination was contested in the primary were leading their opponents by wide margins today. They were Gilbert N. Haugen, co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill; C. C.
Dowell, in the seventh district, and
T. J. B. Robinson, in the third district.

said Chang had shown temporary improvement. Subsequently, it was said, he lost his appetite and lapsed into semi-consciousness.

Chang was wounded in the forehead when his train was bombed.

A Jiji Shimpo newspaper dispatch early today reported that Chang had died. The first Nippon Dmpo dispatch denied it.

CREW MAY BE TRYING TO WORK DISABLED RADIO

SUPPOSITION BASED ON UNCON-FIRMED RADIO AD-VICES

INDICATES ITALIA MAY BE ON FRANZ JOSEF
LAND

Moscow, June 5.—(UP)—A Murmansk fishing trawler radioed today that it had picked up a message from Obdorsk, saying that the radio station there had picked up an S. O. S.
message from the lost polar dirigible
Italia, in Franz Josef Land.

Copenhagen, June 5.—Hope grew today that the dirigible Italia might be safe and that its crew, working with disabled radio equipment, was attempting to communicate with the civilized world. The hope was based on unconfirmed radio advices, which indicated the Italia was on Franz Josef Land.

Several reports—wholly unverified —have been received here, the most hopeful of which came from a radio station at Hemsø, near Hernosland, which advised receipt of a message in French Monday afternoon that read:

"Dirigible Italia, SOS, we have received information you are on Island
Franz Josef Land."

The message indicated the sending station had been in communication with the Italia and it was believed that one of the Russian ice breakers,
sent out by the Russian government,
had been the sending station.

The Hemsø station also reported they had heard a short wave instrument at a wave length of between 35 and 37 meters. The message was preceded by the call signal:

"Italia."

This was transmitted repeatedly for several minutes and finally there came the message, "We received information you are on Franz Josef Land."

Another report was from Lulea, Sweden, saying that the Malmörgets radio station, at 11 P. M. Monday, obtained a connection with a Russian amateur giving the call "15RA." The Russian amateur, the report said, advised he had heard signals from the Italia and had obtained connection with the airship but the connection had been disrupted before any position could be learned.

It was pointed out here that if the Italia had landed on ice it now must be using accumulator batteries to operate its radio apparatus, consequently the signals would be weak and could be heard only in the immediate vicinity, accounting for the airship itself not being heard in Sweden although the signals of the ice breaker or radio station could be heard.

Aboard the Rescue Steamship Hobby, near Spitzbergen, June 5.— (Copyright)—The Hobby, sent by the Norwegian government, arrived at Virgo Bay at dawn today and Lt.
Lutzow Holm began at once to prepare his airplane for the search for the lost polar dirigible Italia.

Rescue work was complicated today when the Hobby received a radio from the steamship Braganza that she could find no trace of two squads of Italian Alpine Chasseurs sent inland to search for the Italia's crew.

Grave anxiety was felt for them.
The Chasseurs were landed on the northwest coast of Spitzbergen a week ago today—with but one week's food. It has been snowing heavily since they left.

The Braganza's message said she had arrived at Welcome Island.

Lieut. Holm, on his flight, will take a small sled, one week's food supply, a sleeping bag and a rifle.

In addition, he will carry three tins of dried meat to throw overboard
if he sights the Italia's crew.

MISSISSIPPI DELEGATES TO FAVOR SEC. HOOVER

Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—(UP)—The Mississippi delegation to the national republican convention today voted to support Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, for the presidential nomination, and to continue to support him until released by the Hoover management.

San Francisco, June 5.—(U.P.)—William M. Johnston, the "Little Bill" of American tennis courts, has retired from active competition in the game which brought him fame.

The press of business, Johnston explained, has prevented him from keeping in condition and bids fair to keep his mind from the tennis court for some time to come.
Johnston expects to assume an executive position in a brokerage firm soon, he said, and while he did not plan to forsake tennis altogether, felt that he would be unable to participate in strenuous tournaments as before.

GREATEST LIST OF GAMES EVER PLAYED BY ARMY

DECEMBER 1 ARMY MEETS STANFORD AT POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK

OTHER OPPONENTS HARVARD, YALE, NOTRE DAME, NEBRASKA, ETC.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 5.—Within 48 hours of the conclusion of its farewell athletic engagements with the Navy, the Army announced a football coup which gives the Cadets the greatest schedule ever arranged for a service eleven.

On December 1, West Point's 1928 team will meet Leland Stanford at the Polo Grounds, New York. The game not only marks the first invasion of the east by a football team from a Pacific coast university, but climaxes a season in which the Army will meet Southern Methodist, Harvard, Yale, DePauw, Notre Dame and Nebraska.

The Cadets' schedule is perhaps the most ambitious ever undertaken by a team ranked on a par with the best college elevens. Leland Stanford, on the other hand, will be meeting all the leading teams of the far west. The climatic game on December 1 may decide, in a sense, the national championship for the 1928 season.

When the break in athletics between the two service academies was established, there was rivalry between Annapolis and West Point over suitable substitutes for the annual, colorful service game.

The navy seemed to have won out, in obtaining Princeton, while the Army was content with Nebraska. It seems now, however, that Major Philip Fleming and Captain "Biff" Jones have not been idle in their quest for something spectacular with which to wind up the Army's football season.

"Biff" Jones has a wealth of material at his disposal, and is confident he can build up a squad which can survive the rigors of a spectacular schedule.

The departure of Stanford from the custom which long retained Pacific coast college elevens on their own territory follows that of Southern California, which last fall came as far eastward as Chicago to meet Notre Dame.

Here are the schedules for the two elevens for next fall:

Date	Army	Stanford
Sept. 29	Boston U	Olympic Club
Oct. 6	Southern Meth.	Oregon
Oct. 13	Providence	L. California
Oct. 20	Harvard	Idaho
Oct. 27	Yale	Fresno State
Nov. 3	DePauw	So. California
Nov. 10	Notre Dame	Santa Clara
Nov. 17	Carleton	Washington
Nov. 24	Nebraska	California
Dec. 1	Stanford	Army

If the two elevens can come through such schedules undefeated, none will withhold from the winner of the final game the title of champions.

WIRE-TAPPING METHODS TAKEN UP 'WITH CAUTION'

Washington, June 5.—(U.P.)—Prohibition investigators have been authorized by Assistant Secretary of Treasury Lowman to resume using "with caution" wire-tapping methods to secure evidence as a result of the U. S. supreme court ruling upholding the legality of wire-tapping by federal officers.

Watching the Scoreboard

By United Press
Yesterday's Hero—Rogers Hornsby, whose home run in the last of the ninth enabled the Boston Braves to beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 3.

The Philadelphia Athletics piled up an early lead due to Ty Cobb's timely hitting and beat the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 3.

Rain prevented all other games.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Holy Cross nine has scheduled a game with Notre Dame June 6 at Worcester.

About the time batter up appears at the ball grounds batter up disappears from the kitchen griddle.

About the most useless thing in a great crisis is a shoestring catch that misses by a sixteenth of an inch.

George Edward "Rube" Waddell, famous American league pitcher, died April 1, 1914, at the age of forty-two.

Harold Wiltse, Red Sox southpaw pitcher, has been traded to the St. Louis Browns for Walter Gerber, shortstop.

Jack Stein of Buffalo, N. Y., who hasn't missed an opening game in 50 years, started his record when he was sixteen.

Alfred J. Reach, former baseball player and later sporting goods manufacturer, left a fortune of more than $1,000,000.

One Iowa high school baseball team defeated a rival, 100 to 0. The scorekeeper is said to be doing as well as can be expected.

Andy Cohen, well-known New York bat and ball artist, once hoped to carve his way to fame. He wanted to become a surgeon.

Baseball again asserts itself as the great American safety valve—something to talk about without much chance of starting a fight.

Should the Yankees win the American league flag this season, Manager Huggins will equal the record of Connie Mack, who has won six pennants.

"There's a lot of speed on my club and that speed is bound to go a long way toward winning ball games," says Manager Ray Schalk of the White Sox.

The Cincinnati Reds sent two rookies to the American association, Jack White, infielder, departing for Toledo, and Kenneth Ash, pitcher, going to Columbus.

Lou Gehrig's first home run of the season cleared the fence at Philadelphia, sailed through an open window and knocked down a picture of Benjamin Franklin.

Jimmy Dykes, with the Athletics, is believed to be the most versatile player in the big leagues. He played every position except that of catcher last year with the Macks.

Paul Easterling, rookie outfielder with the Detroit Tigers, seems to be living up to the tradition of Detroit outfielders. He has hit well in all games he has played.

Pitcher Red Sweeney was released by the Cincinnati Reds to the Peoria club of the Three-I league. Sweeney was sent out under option and is subject to recall at any time.

The Pittsburgh National league baseball club released Boburn Jones of Fort Rayard, N. M., infielder under option, to the Bridgeport (Conn.) club of the Eastern league.

Although his fielding was said to be much better than his hitting ability, it has been Chalmers Cissell's batting in the early weeks of the major league race that has created attention.

Josh Billings, bespectacled Tiger hurler, threatens to become one of the sensations of the majors this season. His showing is all the more remarkable since he was a collegian a year ago.

George Dauss, the grand old right-hander who served the Tigers for so many years, is said to be through with baseball. Dauss, who is on the retired list, is now recuperating from a nervous breakdown.

Preserving Vegetables
Cooked vegetables are those dehydrated by the Cooke-Kelley process. By this method the vitamins are retained and the food will keep indefinitely in powdered form. Spinach, corn and mixed vegetables are among the foods treated in this manner.

STRIKE OF SEAMEN CALLED ON ALL JAPANESE LINES

Kobe, Japan, June 6.—(Wednesday) (U.P.)—A strike of seamen on all Japanese steamship lines except three was ordered at midnight by the Seamen's union.

Nearly all Japanese tramp steamers are affected.

More than seventy ships were held at Yokohama alone. The strike order affects all but the Nippon Yusen, Osaka Shosen, and Kawasaki companies. Failure to negotiate an agreement for a minimum wage caused issue of the strike order.

Connie Mack Satisfied His Ball Club Is Good

"Our ball club is all right. I have no excuses to offer for the team," says Connie Mack, whose Athletics once more seem to be trying to win back the appellation recently taken from them—to wit: The White Elephants. "I have gotten together the best ball club I could lay my hands on," declares Connie. "We've invested a lot of money, bought players where we could find the ones we thought could help us, and I'm satisfied our club is a good one. It can hit and field and that is all any of them can do."

"Our trouble has been with our pitching. I thought we were going to get off with better pitching this year, but the way they've gone it looks as if they are just as bad as they were last spring. My only hope is that I can get them into shape earlier this season than last."

"But we aren't quitting. No one hates it more than the players themselves when they are losing, and no one feels it more keenly than I do. Some day, I don't care how soon, we'll start winning. The race has only started. We are going to keep on trying and fighting."

Ty Cobb Thought Babe Was Doctoring Balls

Here's a yarn Ruth tells on Ty Cobb:

"Billy Evans was umpiring and on my first pitch Billy called for the ball and threw it out."

"That one sailed a foot," Billy said. The next pitch was a strike and Cobb called for the ball.

"He's doctoring he ball," Ty complained. "That one sailed 18 inches." Billy threw it out. I threw the next ball, and they both squawked, and that one was tossed out, too. All told I pitched six balls to Ty on that one turn at bat. And after each pitch Evans tossed the ball out of the game.

"On the sixth pitch, Ty struck out. Boy, maybe you think he wasn't sore. He walked past me when the inning was over. 'You're cheating out there, you big bum,' he said. 'No one can make a ball sail like that unless he's doctoring it. But I'll find out about it, and when I do I'll run you out of the league.'"

"As a matter of fact, I wasn't cheating. I was just as puzzled as Ty. And to this day I don't know what made those balls sail so. It was just one of those things."

His Prayer by Radio

In the minds of many small boys there is a close connection between the wireless and prayer. A little fellow was kneeling at his bedside saying his prayers and he was heard to conclude as follows—" . . . and help me be a good boy. This is Jimmy Jones signing off. I'll be on the air again tomorrow night at seven-thirty."

WM. M. JOHNSTON RETIRE FROM ACTIVE COMPETITION

San Francisco, June 5.—(U.P.)—William M. Johnston, the "Little Bill" of American tennis courts, has retired from active competition in the game which brought him fame.

The press of business, Johnston explained, has prevented him from keeping in condition and bids fair to keep his mind from the tennis court for some time to come.

Johnston expects to assume an executive position in a brokerage firm soon, he said, and while he did not plan to forsake tennis altogether, felt that he would be unable to participate in strenuous tournaments as before.

GREATEST LIST OF GAMES EVER PLAYED BY ARMY

DECEMBER 1 ARMY MEETS STANFORD AT POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK

OTHER OPPONENTS HARVARD, YALE, NOTRE DAME, NEBRASKA, ETC.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 5.—Within 48 hours of the conclusion of its farewell athletic engagements with the Navy, the Army announced a football coup which gives the Cadets the greatest schedule ever arranged for a service eleven.

On December 1, West Point's 1928 team will meet Leland Stanford at the Polo Grounds, New York. The game not only marks the first invasion of the east by a football team from a Pacific coast university, but climaxes a season in which the Army will meet Southern Methodist, Harvard, Yale, DePauw, Notre Dame and Nebraska.

The Cadets' schedule is perhaps the most ambitious ever undertaken by a team ranked on a par with the best college elevens. Leland Stanford, on the other hand, will be meeting all the leading teams of the far west. The climatic game on December 1 may decide, in a sense, the national championship for the 1928 season.

When the break in athletics between the two service academies was established, there was rivalry between Annapolis and West Point over suitable substitutes for the annual, colorful service game.

The navy seemed to have won out, in obtaining Princeton, while the Army was content with Nebraska. It seems now, however, that Major Philip Fleming and Captain "Biff" Jones have not been idle in their quest for something spectacular with which to wind up the Army's football season.

"Biff" Jones has a wealth of material at his disposal, and is confident he can build up a squad which can survive the rigors of a spectacular schedule.

The departure of Stanford from the custom which long retained Pacific coast college elevens on their own territory follows that of Southern California, which last fall came as far eastward as Chicago to meet Notre Dame.

Here are the schedules for the two elevens for next fall:

Date	Army	Stanford
Sept. 29	Boston U.	Olympic Club
Oct. 6	Southern Meth.	Oregon
Oct. 13	Providence	L. California
Oct. 20	Harvard	Idaho
Oct. 27	Yale	Fresno State
Nov. 3	DePauw	So. California
Nov. 10	Notre Dame	Santa Clara
Nov. 17	Carleton	Washington
Nov. 24	Nebraska	California
Dec. 1	Stanford	Army

If the two elevens can come through such schedules undefeated, none will withhold from the winner of the final game the title of champions.

WIRE-TAPPING METHODS TAKEN UP 'WITH CAUTION'

Washington, June 5.—(U.P.)—Prohibition investigators have been authorized by Assistant Secretary of Treasury Lowman to resume using "with caution," wire-tapping methods to secure evidence as a result of the U. S. supreme court ruling upholding the legality of wire-tapping by federal officers.

Watching the Scoreboard

By United Press
Yesterday's Hero—Rogers Hornsby, whose home run in the last of the ninth enabled the Boston Braves to beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 3.

The Philadelphia Athletics piled up an early lead due to Ty Cobb's timely hitting and beat the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 3.

Rain prevented all other games.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Holy Cross nine has scheduled a game with Notre Dame June 6 at Worcester.

About the time batter up appears at the ball grounds batter up disappears from the kitchen griddle.

About the most useless thing in a great crisis is a shoestring catch that misses by a sixteenth of an inch.

George Edward "Rube" Waddell, famous American league pitcher, died April 1, 1914, at the age of forty-two.

Harold Wiltse, Red Sox southpaw pitcher, has been traded to the St. Louis Browns for Walter Gerber, shortstop.

Jack Stein of Buffalo, N. Y., who hasn't missed an opening game in 50 years, started his record when he was sixteen.

Alfred J. Reach, former baseball player and later sporting goods manufacturer, left a fortune of more than $1,000,000.

One Iowa high school baseball team defeated a rival, 100 to 0. The scorekeeper is said to be doing as well as can be expected.

Andy Cohen, well-known New York bat and ball artist, once hoped to carve his way to fame. He wanted to become a surgeon.

Baseball again asserts itself as the great American safety valve—something to talk about without much chance of starting a fight.

Should the Yankees win the American league flag this season, Manager Huggins will equal the record of Connie Mack, who has won six pennants.

"There's a lot of speed on my club and that speed is bound to go a long way toward winning ball games," says Manager Ray Schalk of the White Sox.

The Cincinnati Reds sent two rookies to the American association, Jack White, infielder, departing for Toledo, and Kenneth Ash, pitcher, going to Columbus.

Lou Gehrig's first home run of the season cleared the fence at Philadelphia, sailed through an open window and knocked down a picture of Benjamin Franklin.

Jimmy Dykes, with the Athletics, is believed to be the most versatile player in the big leagues. He played every position except that of catcher last year with the Macks.

Paul Easterling, rookie outfielder with the Detroit Tigers, seems to be living up to the tradition of Detroit outfielders. He has hit well in all games he has played.

Pitcher Red Sweeney was released by the Cincinnati Reds to the Peoria club of the Three-I league. Sweeney was sent out under option and is subject to recall at any time.

The Pittsburgh National league baseball club released Boburn Jones of Fort Rayard, N. M., infielder under option, to the Bridgeport (Conn.) club of the Eastern league.

Although his fielding was said to be much better than his hitting ability, it has been Chalmers Cissell's batting in the early weeks of the major league race that has created attention.

Josh Billings, bespectacled Tiger hurler, threatens to become one of the sensations of the majors this season. His showing is all the more remarkable since he was a collegian a year ago.

George Dauss, the grand old right-hander who served the Tigers for so many years, is said to be through with baseball. Dauss, who is on the retired list, is now recuperating from a nervous breakdown.

Preserving Vegetables
Cooked vegetables are those dehydrated by the Cooke-Kelley process. By this method the vitamins are retained and the food will keep indefinitely in powdered form. Spinach, corn and mixed vegetables are among the foods treated in this manner.

STRIKE OF SEAMEN CALLED ON ALL JAPANESE LINES

Kobe, Japan, June 6.—(Wednesday) (U.P.)—A strike of seamen on all Japanese steamship lines except three was ordered at midnight by the Seamen's union.

Nearly all Japanese tramp steamers are affected.

More than seventy ships were held at Yokohama alone. The strike order affects all but the Nippon Yusen, Osaka Shosen, and Kawasaki companies. Failure to negotiate an agreement for a minimum wage caused issue of the strike order.

Connie Mack Satisfied His Ball Club Is Good

"Our ball club is all right. I have no excuses to offer for the team," says Connie Mack, whose Athletics once more seem to be trying to win back the appellation recently taken from them—to wit: The White Elephants. "I have gotten together the best ball club I could lay my hands on," declares Connie. "We've invested a lot of money, bought players where we could find the ones we thought could help us, and I'm satisfied our club is a good one. It can hit and field and that is all any of them can do."

"Our trouble has been with our pitching. I thought we were going to get off with better pitching this year, but the way they've gone it looks as if they are just as bad as they were last spring. My only hope is that I can get them into shape earlier this season than last."

"But we aren't quitting. No one hates it more than the players themselves when they are losing, and no one feels it more keenly than I do. Some day, I don't care how soon, we'll start winning. The race has only started. We are going to keep on trying and fighting."

Ty Cobb Thought Babe Was Doctoring Balls

Here's a yarn Ruth tells on Ty Cobb:

"Billy Evans was umpiring and on my first pitch Billy called for the ball and threw it out."

"That one sailed a foot," Billy said. The next pitch was a strike and Cobb called for the ball.

"He's doctoring he ball," Ty complained. "That one sailed 18 inches." Billy threw it out. I threw the next ball, and they both squawked, and that one was tossed out, too. All told I pitched six balls to Ty on that one turn at bat. And after each pitch Evans tossed the ball out of the game."

"On the sixth pitch, Ty struck out. Boy, maybe you think he wasn't sore. He walked past me when the inning was over. 'You're cheating out there, you big bum,' he said. 'No one can make a ball sail like that unless he's doctoring it. But I'll find out about it, and when I do I'll run you out of the league!'"

"As a matter of fact, I wasn't cheating. I was just as puzzled as Ty. And to this day I don't know what made those balls sail so. It was just one of those things."

His Prayer by Radio

TO PERPETUATE OUR HISTORY

NEXT week the Minnesota Historical society, together with its various affiliated groups will meet at Brainerd for its annual session, and many important matters will be discussed. Authorities on the early history of the state will present papers of great historical interest and the romance and legend of the great North Star state, old yet ever new, will be recalled and retold.

One of the most active historical groups in the state is the St. Louis County Historical society. It has gathered and preserved a great amount of authentic material in regard to the early history of this section of the state at the Head of the Lakes. No section of America has a more romantic or intriguing history than this land where Greysolon Du Luth and his companions penetrated into the unknown wilderness 250 years ago, and reached the site where the modern city of Duluth now stands.

With the revival of interest in the romantic history of the Lake Superior country, both in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and with President Coolidge and his party coming to this region for his summer vacation, a big historical pageant, as was suggested in a front-page editorial in The News Tribune Saturday, would be most appropriate.

New England, where the president and Mrs. Coolidge were born and raised, has a background of history dating almost back to the discovery of America. It was the cradle of liberty. There it was that the first gun of the Revolution was fired and independence eventually won. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are familiar with that.

New England has capitalized its historic background, to its very material advantage, as have many other state and sections. And rightly so. Well may they exploit the adventures of those early pioneers who came and conquered.

An historical pageant at the Head of the Lakes this summer would be interesting and educational. It would teach, as no other method would teach, the rich history and legend of this region. Undoubtedly such a pageant, properly staged and authentically presented, would prove a fine attraction to the presidential party and to the thousands of visitors who will come to this section during the season.

We have plenty of talent here to present an historical spectacle of this nature. Indians are available. This is something for Duluth to think about, and if found feasible the preliminary arrangements should be got under way without delay.—Duluth News Tribune.

PURCHASING POWER OF DOLLAR HIGH

ACCORDING to The Manufacturer, the purchasing power of the dollar, as measured by average living costs for the American wage earner and other persons of moderate means which includes the great majority of the population today, stands higher than it has for nearly five years, according to the monthly cost of living index of the National Industrial Conference Board. The dollar is worth, on the basis of living costs during March, 62.1 cents in comparison with the purchasing power of the prewar dollar in July, 1914. It was lowest in July, 1920, when it stood at 48.9 cents as compared with July, 1914.

The purchasing power of the dollar has been enhanced by a net decline in the cost of living of 21.2 per cent since July, 1920, the peak of the post-war inflation period. This decline has been a fairly steady one for the two years 1926 and 1927, living costs today being the lowest since June, 1923, when they were at about the present level.

The chief factors in the declining cost of living are the items of food and rent. Retail food prices, the most important item in the wage earner's cost of living budget, in March of this year were 31.1 per cent lower than in July, 1920, and about 5½ per cent lower than in March, 1926. Rents, which did not reach their post-war peak until July and August, 1924, when they were 86 per cent higher than in July, 1914, in March of this year for the country as a whole averaged 11.3 per cent lower than at their 1924 peak and 6.8 per cent lower than March, 1926. Coal prices, which have fluctuated considerably, averaged last winter about 20 per cent less than at their peak in November, 1920. Gas and electricity combined, which item reached its peak in 1921, since that time decreased by about 21 per cent. Clothing prices average a net decline of about 40 per cent from their peak in April, 1920, but have held fairly steady during the past two years. All other items, combined in the group "sundries" in the budget, in March of this year were 10.9 per cent lower than at their peak in 1920 and about 2 per cent lower than two years ago.

While the total cost of living in March of this year was 61.1 per cent higher than in July, 1914, average weekly earnings per worker in the manufacturing industries in February, 1928, were 118 per cent higher and average hourly earnings, reflecting principally wage rates, were 131 per cent higher. Thus the purchasing power of an industrial worker's weekly pay in February of this year averaged 35 per cent higher than it did at the outbreak of the World War, and the purchasing power of his wage on basis of hourly earnings was 43 per cent greater.

POTATO ACREAGE

ACCORDING to news dispatches it is estimated there will be a ten to fifteen per cent increase in the potato acreage in the Red River Valley compared to last year. The increase in acreage is attributed by some to the abundance of seed stock. If there is an increase in acreage as indicated there is a danger of over production this fall if this is a condition that exists over the entire country, and there is a good yield of potatoes. But there are so many factors that determine what the price of potatoes will be that a ten per cent or more increase in acreage in the Red River Valley may mean very little, especially if there is a light crop, says the Hawley Herald.

Over a long period of years the potato crop in the past in Clay county has averaged one of the best paying crops and in view of the fact that the farmers here understand the raising of potatoes and have the machinery and land particularly adapted to potato production, it has in the past been good business to plant as much potatoes as each individual farmer could properly take care of, providing he didn't depend entirely on this single crop, which some years is very profitable and other years just the reverse.

An historical pageant at the Head of the Lakes this summer would be interesting and educational. It would teach, as no other method would teach, the rich history and legend of this region. Undoubtedly such a pageant, properly staged and authentically presented, would prove a fine attraction to the presidential party and to the thousands of visitors who will come to this section during the season.

We have plenty of talent here to present an historical spectacle of this nature. Indians are available. This is something for Duluth to think about, and if found feasible the preliminary arrangements should be got under way without delay.—Duluth News Tribune.

PURCHASING POWER OF DOLLAR HIGH

ACCORDING to The Manufacturer, the purchasing power of the dollar, as measured by average living costs for the American wage earner and other persons of moderate means which includes the great majority of the population today, stands higher than it has for nearly five years, according to the monthly cost of living index of the National Industrial Conference Board. The dollar is worth, on the basis of living costs during March, 62.1 cents in comparison with the purchasing power of the prewar dollar in July, 1914. It was lowest in July, 1920, when it stood at 48.9 cents as compared with July, 1914.

The purchasing power of the dollar has been enhanced by a net decline in the cost of living of 21.2 per cent since July, 1920, the peak of the post-war inflation period. This decline has been a fairly steady one for the two years 1926 and 1927, living costs today being the lowest since June, 1923, when they were at about the present level.

The chief factors in the declining cost of living are the items of food and rent. Retail food prices, the most important item in the wage earner's cost of living budget, in March of this year were 31.1 per cent lower than in July, 1920, and about 5½ per cent lower than in March, 1926. Rents, which did not reach their post-war peak until July and August, 1924, when they were 86 per cent higher than in July, 1914, in March of this year for the country as a whole averaged 11.3 per cent lower than at their 1924 peak and 6.8 per cent lower than March, 1926. Coal prices, which have fluctuated considerably, averaged last winter about 20 per cent less than at their peak in November, 1920. Gas and electricity combined, which item reached its peak in 1921, since that time decreased by about 21 per cent. Clothing prices average a net decline of about 40 per cent from their peak in April, 1920, but have held fairly steady during the past two years. All other items, combined in the group "sundries" in the budget, in March of this year were 10.9 per cent lower than at their peak in 1920 and about 2 per cent lower than two years ago.

While the total cost of living in March of this year was 61.1 per cent higher than in July, 1914, average weekly earnings per worker in the manufacturing industries in February, 1928, were 118 per cent higher and average hourly earnings, reflecting principally wage rates, were 131 per cent higher. Thus the purchasing power of an industrial worker's weekly pay in February of this year averaged 35 per cent higher than it did at the outbreak of the World War, and the purchasing power of his wage on basis of hourly earnings was 43 per cent greater.

POTATO ACREAGE

ACCORDING to news dispatches it is estimated there will be a ten to fifteen per cent increase in the potato acreage in the Red River Valley compared to last year. The increase in acreage is attributed by some to the abundance of seed stock. If there is an increase in acreage as indicated there is a danger of over production this fall if this is a condition that exists over the entire country, and there is a good yield of potatoes. But there are so many factors that determine what the price of potatoes will be that a ten per cent or more increase in acreage in the Red River Valley may mean very little, especially if there is a light crop, says the Hawley Herald.

Over a long period of years the potato crop in the past in Clay county has averaged one of the best paying crops and in view of the fact that the farmers here understand the raising of potatoes and have the machinery and land particularly adapted to potato production, it has in the past been good business to plant as much potatoes as each individual farmer could properly take care of, providing he didn't depend entirely on this single crop, which some years is very profitable and other years just the reverse.

ALLEGED BOOTLEG TRUST FUND BARED

Robert E. Ditch Enters Sensational Defense in Action of George Wicks

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Wicks Sues for $78 Borrowed Ditch to Pay Liquor Fine on February 23

An alleged "bootleggers trust fund" for the purpose of paying fines was the basis for a defense by Robert E. Ditch in the action of George Wicks in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Wicks is suing Ditch for recovery of $78 which he claims to have loaned Ditch to pay off a fine of $75 and costs imposed in municipal court on February 23, 1928, for violation of the liquor laws. Judge J. H. Warner took the case under advisement.

Testimony by Wicks revealed that he made several demands on Ditch to repay the money, later attaching Ditch's car.

Ditch put up the defense that the money belonged to a partnership fund between them while they were in the liquor business together. Wicks denied the charges made by Ditch.

One of the witnesses for Ditch was Chester Carson who two years ago was found guilty of assault. Joe Courtney, who was charged at the same time with assault, was freed.

Wicks was represented by Basil T. Heath of the firm of Heath and Larson while Ditch was represented by Attorney L. P. Koop.

MAY PAVE HOLLY ST. TO ELIMINATE DUST

Aldermen to Seek Attitude of Property Owners in Second Ward

REPORT TO NEXT MEETING

Council Appropriates $300, County $680 to Improving Baxter-Brainerd Road

The attitude of the property owners in the second ward will be secured as to their desire to have paved Holly street from Fifth to Eighth streets according to a resolution adopted by the city council last evening instructing the aldermen from the second ward to approach the property owners and report back to the next meeting whether paving is desired.

Discussion of paving the street came about through complaints of the raising of dust by the heavy traffic on the street. The dust from the surfacing has caused considerable annoyance to property owners in that section and has also been a deterring factor in keeping the north side of Gregory Park in a clean condition.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell will assist in the questioning. He was not instructed to make an estimate of the cost at this time. He suggested as an alternative to paving the placing of chemicals on the road to hold down the dust.

Efforts to provide a more suitable road for travel between Baxter township and Brainerd brought out the appropriation of $300 for expenditure on the improvement of the road with the agreement that the county expend $680.

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy appeared before the council and announced that the county board was willing to expend $680 if the city would appropriate the sum of $300.

The work will be done by contract under the supervision of the county highway engineer and the city engineer.

Discussion of construction of a splashboard on the north side of the Mississippi river bridge on Laurel street to protect pedestrians on the sidewalk from water splashed by cars passing resulted in a resolution adopted authorizing the city engineer, street committee to meet with the county board of commissioners and seek their aid in the matter.

The report of Miss Eula Michael, city and school health nurse, for the past month was received and accepted. The report showed that school work closed this month with attendance back to normal. Two cases of scarlet fever developed in one room at the same time but no new cases have developed since. All physical examinations were completed before school closed. The 400 form letters sent out were to parents telling them of baby weighing day which will be conducted every Thursday at the city hall.

P. W. Brecht was granted a license to operate a pop corn wagon. He tendered a check for $50 to cover the license.

Milk and cream licenses approved by the dairy inspector were submitted to the following: Andrew Erickson, Mrs. H. Stein, Mike Vierzba, Matt Hay.

There will be a free tuberculosis clinic at the office of the county nurse, at the court house, Saturday, June 9, from 2 to 4 o'clock. Dr. E. L. Strader will conduct the clinic.

The vote on this resolution recorded the same as the previous resolution calling for the special election.

The board also adopted a resolution by the vote of six to three making application to the Minnesota Investment Board for the loan of $150,000 to be used in the erection of a new high school building on Lot 155, known as the Washington school site in accordance with the result of the special school election.

The loan will not be required by the board for some time yet but it is made as a matter of policy, no extra charge being made for the time elapsed before the money can be used. In order to secure the loan application must be made as outlined in the statute within 20 days following the election.

The vote on this resolution recorded: for G. D. LaBar, R. W. Crust, M. E. Morrison, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Elmer Forsberg, Louis F. Hohman; against, George Falconer, Fred Drexler, and John Holvick.

Delegation Makes Request

A committee of three headed by Lewis Noggle, representatives of the Shopcrafts of the N. P. shops here appeared before the board and asked that the board consider the selection of a Minnesota architect for the Brainerd school building program. No action was taken on the matter by the board.

The matter of selection of an architect will be taken up by the board at a special meeting to be held Wednesday evening, June 6.

George Falconer offered a motion that soundings be taken on Block 82, the motion being seconded by Fred Drexler. Mr. Crust and Mr. Forsberg offered an amendment to the motion that Block 155 be included and soundings be taken at the same time. After considerable discussion, the two motions were embodied in the one. The motion when put to a vote however was lost.

ALLEGED BOOTLEG TRUST FUND BARED

Robert E. Ditch Enters Sensational Defense in Action of George Wicks

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Wicks Sues for $78 Borrowed Ditch to Pay Liquor Fine on February 23

An alleged "bootleggers trust fund" for the purpose of paying fines was the basis for a defense by Robert E. Ditch in the action of George Wicks in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Wicks is suing Ditch for recovery of $78 which he claims to have loaned Ditch to pay off a fine of $75 and costs imposed in municipal court on February 23, 1928, for violation of the liquor laws. Judge J. H. Warner took the case under advisement.

Testimony by Wicks revealed that he made several demands on Ditch to repay the money, later attaching Ditch's car.

Ditch put up the defense that the money belonged to a partnership fund between them while they were in the liquor business together. Wicks denied the charges made by Ditch.

One of the witnesses for Ditch was Chester Carson who two years ago was found guilty of assault. Joe Courtney, who was charged at the same time with assault, was freed.

Wicks was represented by Basil T. Heath of the firm of Heath and Larson while Ditch was represented by Attorney L. P. Koop.

BRAINERD'S OLDEST STORIES OF TODAY

Workmen engaged in tearing out an old floor while making improvements at a former garage near Sixth and Laurel streets, once the site of the Tom Wilson and Nelson saloons of pre-Volstead days, came upon a bottle of Old Pepper Springs whiskey. We give the reader one guess as to what happened to the bottle and its contents.

MAY PAVE HOLLY ST. TO ELIMINATE DUST

Aldermen to Seek Attitude of Property Owners in Second Ward

Council Appropriates $300, County $680 to Improving Baxter-Brainerd Road

The attitude of the property owners in the second ward will be secured as to their desire to have paved Holly street from Fifth to Eighth streets according to a resolution adopted by the city council last evening instructing the aldermen from the second ward to approach the property owners and report back to the next meeting whether paving is desired.

Discussion of paving the street came about through complaints of the raising of dust by the heavy traffic on the street. The dust from the surfacing has caused considerable annoyance to property owners in that section and has also been a deterring factor in keeping the north side of Gregory Park in a clean condition.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell will assist in the questioning. He was not instructed to make an estimate of the cost at this time. He suggested as an alternative to paving the placing of chemicals on the road to hold down the dust.

Efforts to provide a more suitable road for travel between Baxter township and Brainerd brought out the appropriation of $300 for expenditure on the improvement of the road with the agreement that the county expend $680.

County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy appeared before the council and announced that the county board was willing to expend $680 if the city would appropriate the sum of $300.

The work will be done by contract under the supervision of the county highway engineer and the city engineer.

Discussion of construction of a splashboard on the north side of the Mississippi river bridge on Laurel street to protect pedestrians on the sidewalk from water splashed by cars passing resulted in a resolution adopted authorizing the city engineer, street committee to meet with the county board of commissioners and seek their aid in the matter.

The report of Miss Eula Michael, city and school health nurse, for the past month was received and accepted. The report showed that school work closed this month with attendance back to normal. Two cases of scarlet fever developed in one room at the same time but no new cases have developed since. All physical examinations were completed before school closed. The 400 form letters sent out were to parents telling them of baby weighing day which will be conducted every Thursday at the city hall.

P. W. Brecht was granted a license to operate a pop corn wagon. He tendered a check for $50 to cover the license.

Milk and cream licenses approved by the dairy inspector were submitted to the following: Andrew Erickson, Mrs. H. Stein, Mike Vierzba, Matt Hay.

Tuberculosis Clinic

There will be a free tuberculosis clinic at the office of the county nurse, at the court house, Saturday, June 9, from 2 to 4 o'clock. Dr. E. L. Strader will conduct the clinic.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picture production of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

Captain Jerome Bonaparte incurs the displeasure of his brother, Napoleon, when he marries Betsy Patterson. When the couple arrive in France the Emperor informs Betsy that she must renounce her husband. Heartbroken, she does so, and returns alone to Baltimore to await the birth of her child. In the months that follow Napoleon has the marriage annulled. He sends for Jerome from his safekeeping and tells him to prepare for his coronation as King of Westphalia. The Emperor is enraged to find that Jerome persists in cherishing his love for Betsy Patterson and a determination to return at all costs to her.

"What the German peoples desire is not subordination but a great ruler who will put an end to class difference; who will choose as his officials not those of noble birth but those who are talented," continued the Emperor. "You will rule by the Code Napoleon; you will establish trial by jury, and legal procedures will be made public. Under your rule all Germany will have a greater liberty, a greater equality, a greater prosperity than heretofore known." Threatening, cajoling, flattering, offering temptations of power, honor, money, the Emperor stalked about the room as though he would soon close in on his enemy and demand complete capitulation. Craftily he was playing his game, pitting his offers of a kingdom against the love of a woman. Slowly he was weaving a web of glittering words that would sooner or later, he believed, attract and lure his opponent into his net.

As Napoleon talked urgently, tersely, he built up vistas of future grandeur before his brother's eyes. It was as though he were unrolling a kaleidoscopic view of the other's life. Jerome envisioned pictures of royal splendor; he saw himself clothed in regal grandeur, the worshipped father and liberator of a great territory. His name would be blazoned on the books of history. On the other hand, if he made a definite refusal of the crown what could he expect from his brother? Exile, banishment, perhaps even imprisonment. For he knew that regardless of the fact that the Emperor loved him more than he did any of his other brothers, he would carry out in some way his threats, and Jerome was as yet but little more than twenty-three, with all the fire of youth bubbling like champagne in his veins.

Yet before his eyes came always the remembrance of that slim figure in green with red curls crinkling about her lovely face. If he should never see her again! The thought sent a chill through him. He shuddered. All the long weary months they had been separated! Winter had come and gone; another spring had crept by. The apple blossoms once sweet along the old roads in Normandy, had flung their pale pine fragrance on the air, and now it was summer, and his thoughts went swiftly, winging across three thousand weary miles of water.

"I am not insensible to the honor you confer upon me by offering me the throne of Westphalia," Jerome began at last. "But I cannot accept it leaving behind the memory of the woman I worship; casting her off as though I had forgotten her completely."

"Ah, now you are becoming tragic," Napoleon declared. "I am not asking you to forsake her utterly. I will make arrangements for an annuity to be granted her that she may live in comfort all the rest of her life. In the event that there is a child I will make provision for it in the sum I bestow upon its mother. She will be independent."

"Sire, you speak of my wife as though she were my mistress," Jerome flamed angrily.

"No, no! calm yourself." The Emperor took his brother's hat and pressed it tenderly. "The very fact that I order the annulment of this union is proof that I recognize the marriage. No, I offer you this."

"It is an unfair compensation, sire," Jerome retorted. "It neither brings her any closer to me nor does it permit me to have any part in her life. I refuse to consider any separation, legal or otherwise."

"By special act of the Council of State your marriage to Mademoiselle Patterson has already been annulled," Napoleon ordered his back on his brother and paced up and down, up and down, his footfalls sounding a muffled beat in the silent room.

Jerome bit his lip to keep back the angry torrent of words that flooded his mouth. It was no use to try to combat this powerful being who knew how to flatter, praise, punish or persuade a recalcitrant subject. He would wait on and on, talking interminably, until he had beaten down any resistance against himself, or suddenly come up upon the enemy and take him by a storm of enforced commands.

"On October fifteenth your marriage to the Princess Friedericka will be celebrated at Wurttemberg," the Emperor announced coldly. "Arrangements have already been completed. You will return to Mamma and remain with her until the time when you will be escorted by a retinue to the Court, where you will meet your intended wife." He sat down on a more and picked up the little carved pins, playing with them, sifting them through his fingers.

Jerome remained silent, considering his brother's words. He realized now that there was nothing further that he could say. He was being sent into polite banishment where his mother, who her self had agreed with her Emperor son about the marriage of her youngest, Mamma, too, would start her siege against him just as Napoleon had started his, and Mamma would watch carefully that he made no escape from under her eagle eye. There was nothing to do then but to agree and then to plan for some way of escape.

"Yes, sire," he bowed his head in agreement.

"Good!" Napoleon nodded and once more took up his game of chess against the world.

Realizing that the interview was terminated Jerome saluted and stepped quickly to the entrance-way, saluted again, and left. He closed the door behind him quietly, and stood, his head sunk low on his chest, his mind already busy with some plan whereby he might forestall this seemingly inevitable marriage with the Princess Friedericka. As he stood there, a soldier entered and, coming quickly towards him, saluted. He cautiously took a letter from his breast pocket and slipped it into Jerome's hand.

Thanking the messenger, Jerome snatched at the letter eagerly, quickly recognizing the handwriting of his wife. He tore open the missive and began to read. As he read, his eyes dilated with surprise and then with great joy.

"Baltimore, July 9, 1805," it began. "Jerome, dearest: The months have rolled by, and tomorrow has not come. However, there is now another Jerome, and some day, perhaps, if ever destiny shows the way, you may see your son. I am waiting, always and ever, Betty."

"A son—my son!" Jerome breathed happily. He knew now that no matter what happened he must find some way out of his dilemma. What did it matter whether there was exile, or even imprisonment starting him in the face. He must find some means of frustrating his brother's plans. He raised the letter to his lips, kissing the signature again and again. Slowly he walked down the long corridor and out into the warm summer day. He stepped into the carriage bearing the royal insignia, and directed the coachman to his mother's home.

CHAPTER XVIII

Once more the hot August sun beat down on the Patterson garden, warming the late roses into luxuriant bloom, and making them to send out a heavy overpowering fragrance. The dusty road sent up little flourishes of cloudy dust. Shimmering, dry heat wavered maddeningly up from the flag stone walks. In the midst of the garden, underneath the shade of the great old oak trees was spread a drowsy white blanket. Rolling about, chuckling, laughing, waving tiny fists about happily, lay a baby. Bending over it, chuckling it under the chin and causing it to send up little gurgles of glee, kneeled Betsy. She smiled on the child fondly, and sat down beside it. (To be continued)

Puts an End to Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen toe joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask H. P. Dunn or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if one bottle of Emerald Oil does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal. —Adv.

DR. W. S. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sick-ens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

Captain Jerome Bonaparte incurs the displeasure of his brother, Napoleon, when he marries Betsy Patterson. When the couple arrive in France the Emperor informs Betsy that she must renounce her husband. Heartbroken, she does so, and returns alone to Baltimore to await the birth of her child. In the months that follow Napoleon has the marriage annulled. He sends for Jerome from his safekeeping and tells him to prepare for his coronation as King of Westphalia. The Emperor is enraged to find that Jerome persists in cherishing his love for Betsy Patterson and a determination to return at all costs to her.

"What the German peoples desire is not subordination but a great ruler who will put an end to class difference; who will choose as his officials not those of noble birth but those who are talented," continued the Emperor. "You will rule by the Code Napoleon; you will establish trial by jury, and legal procedures will be made public. Under your rule all Germany will have a greater liberty, a greater equality, a greater prosperity than heretofore known." Threatening, cajoling, flattering, offering temptations of power, honor, money, the Emperor stalked about the room as though he would soon close in on his enemy and demand complete capitulation. Craftily he was playing his game, pitting his offers of a kingdom against the love of a woman. Slowly he was weaving a web of

As Napoleon talked urgently, tersely, he built up vistas of future grandeur before his brother's eyes. It was as though he were unrolling a kaleidoscopic view of the other's life. Jerome envisioned pictures of royal splendor; he saw himself clothed in regal grandeur, the worshipped father and liberator of a great territory. His name would be blazoned on the books of history.

On the other hand, if he made a definite refusal of the crown what could he expect from his brother? Exile, banishment, perhaps even imprisonment. For he knew that regardless of the fact that the Emperor loved him more than he did any of his other brothers, he would carry out in some way his threats, and Jerome was as yet but little more than twenty-three, with all the fire of youth bubbling like champagne in his veins.

Yet before his eyes came always the remembrance of that slim figure in green with red curls circling about her lovely face. If he should never see her again! The thought sent a chill through him. He shuddered. All the long weary months they had been separated! Winter had come and gone; another spring had crept by. The apple blossoms once sweet along the old roads in Normandy, had flung their pale pink fragrance on the air, and now it was summer, and his thoughts went swiftly winging across three thousand weary miles of water.

"I am not insensible to the honor you confer upon me by offering me the throne of Westphalia," Jerome began at last. "But I cannot accept it leaving behind the memory of the woman I worship; casting her off as though I had forgotten her completely."

"Ah, now you are becoming tragic," Napoleon declared. "I am not asking you to forsake her utterly. I will make arrangements for an annuity to be granted her that she may live in comfort all the rest of her life. In the event that there is a child I will make provision for it in the sum I bestow upon its mother. She will be independent."

"Sire, you speak of my wife as though she were my mistress," Jerome flamed angrily.

"No, no! calm yourself." The Emperor took his brother's hand and pressed it tenderly. "It is very fact that I order the annulment of this union is proof that I recognize the marriage. No, I defer you this."

"It is an unfair compensation, sire," Jerome retorted. "It neither brings her any closer to me nor does it permit me to have any part in her life. I refuse to consider any separation, legal or otherwise."

"By special act of the Council of State your marriage to Mademoiselle Patterson has already been annulled," Napoleon turned his back on his brother and paced up and down, up and down, his footfalls sounding a muffled drum in the silent room.

Jerome bit his lip to keep back the angry torrent of words that flooded his mouth. It was no use to try to combat this powerful man; he knew how to flatter, praise, punish or persuade a recalcitrant subject. He would wait on and on, talking interminably, until he had beaten down any resistance against himself, or suddenly come up upon the enemy and take him by a storm of enforced commands.

"On October fifteenth your marriage to the Princess Friedericka will be celebrated at Wurtemberg," the Emperor announced coldly. "Arrangements have already been completed. You will return to Mamma and remain with her until the time when you will be escorted by a retinue to the Court, where you will meet your intended wife." He sat down on a more and picked up the little colored pins, playing with them, shifting them through his fingers.

Jerome remained silent, considering his brother's words. He realized now that there was nothing further that he could say. He was being sent into polite banishment where his mother, who herself had agreed with her Emperor son about the marriage of her youngest, Mamma, too, would start her siege against him just as Napoleon had started his, and Mamma would watch carefully that he made no escape. Under her eagle eye, there was nothing to do then but to agree and then to plan for some way of escape.

"Yes, sire," he bowed his head in agreement.

"Good!" Napoleon nodded and once more took up his game of chess against the world.

Realizing that the interview was terminated, Jerome saluted and stepped quickly to the entrance-way, saluted again, and left. He closed the door behind him quietly, and stood, his head sunk low on his chest, his mind already busy with some plan whereby he might forestall this seemingly inevitable marriage with the Princess Friedericka. As he stood there, a soldier entered and, coming quickly towards him, saluted. He cautiously took a letter from his breast pocket and slipped it into Jerome's hand.

Thanking the messenger, Jerome snatched at the letter eagerly, quickly recognizing the handwriting of his wife. He tore open the missive and began to read. As he read, his eyes dilated with surprise and then with great joy.

"Baltimore, July 9, 1805," it began. "Jerome, dearest: The months have rolled by, and 'tomorrow' has not come. However, there is now another Jerome, and some day, perhaps, if ever destiny shows the way you may see your son. I am waiting always and ever, Betsy."

"A son—my son!" Jerome breathed happily. He knew that no matter what happened he must find some way out of his dilemma. What did it matter whether there was exile, or even imprisonment staring him in the face. He must find some means of frustrating his brother's plans. He raised the letter to his lips, kissing the signature again and again. Slowly he walked down the long corridor and out into the warm summer day. He stepped into the carriage bearing the royal insignia, and directed the coachman to his mother's home.

CHAPTER XVIII

Once more the hot August sun beat down on the Patterson garden, warming the late roses into luxuriant bloom, and making them to send out a heavy overpowering fragrance. The dusty road sent up little flourishes of cloudy sand shimmering, dry heat wavered maddeningly up from the flag stone walks. In the midst of the garden underneath the shade of the great white oak trees was spread a downy white blanket. Rolling about, chuckling, laughing, waving tiny fists about happily, lay a baby. Bending over it, chuckling it under the chin and causing it to send up little gurgles of glee, knelt Betsy. She smiled on the child fondly, and sat down beside it.

SAVAGE STARS OF CHRISTY CIRCUS

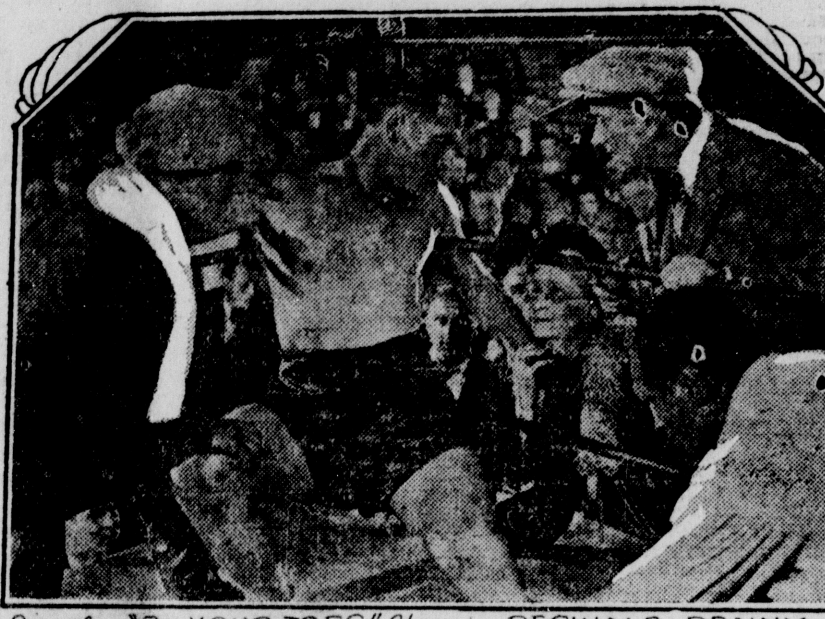

The Christy Bros. Circus which will be here next Friday for two performances has on its roster of attractions two blacked maned African lions, who have been trained and brought up from infancy by Miss Lura Weiler, the famous animal trainer, and these savage beasts go through many a stunt for this intrepid trainer, these kings of the jungle have a reputation as killers, the most dreaded of all the denizens of the menagerie, and the attendants give their cage a wide berth.

In the old days the biggest show's menagerie was a primitive affair to the zoological garden en route with the Christy Bros. Circus. It would require a week to make even a cursory study of all the inhabitants of this vast tent which covers over a city block. Weaving about uneasy of mind and body the elephants, caparisoned in silk and velvet of beautiful shades and hemmed with gold and silver braid, and the camels, separated by a huge monkey carnival occupy the center along with Hindoo cattle, and Iceland reindeer, and 60 tiny Shetland ponies. Then there are the tigers and the leopards, and hyenas, zebras, emus, mouflon, and not overlooking to mention that Miss Jumbo the largest elephant in all the world is there.

The two mile long street parade will leave the show grounds promptly at noon.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need
a Mild Laxative
—Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sick-ens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.
